Nutrition Education Intern

The Community Health Improvement Department is seeking a Nutrition Education Intern to support our Health Education and Access Programs at the Cambridge Health Alliance. Our programs are typically delivered to community groups and designed to encourage individuals from different cultural backgrounds to develop good eating habits and maintain good health. Our goal is to prevent diseases before it occurs and reduce risk factors that cause disease.

Duties:

- Assess and evaluate our existing health and wellness program materials
- Develop new nutrition education offerings including presentations and infographics
- Develop culturally appropriate health and wellness content for various social media platforms

Time commitment

- We are looking for individuals who can commit to at least ten hours per week for a period of at least three months.

Qualifications

- Graduate student in Nutrition
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Interest in nutrition education and community health, as demonstrated by previous activities, classes, or work experience.
- Knowledge of community health concepts and approaches to chronic disease prevention
- Experience creating presentations, infographics and nutrition educational materials
- Experience creating content for various social media platforms
- Understanding of the role of social determinants of health

Additional Information

- Candidates must successfully pass a CORI background screening
- This is an unpaid position.

How to Apply

- Please submit resume and cover letter explaining why you are interested in this position by January 31st to: Jamila Xible at jxible@challiance.org